

future music forum

september 12/14 · 2018

9th Annual Future Music Forum Barcelona

Barcelona, Spain – 17th May 2018 – The Future Music Forum (FMF), Europe's favourite boutique music conference announced the launch of its 9th edition today with its complete agenda. The 9th Annual FMF will be held this September 12th-14th at the Estrella Damn Brewery in the Eixample district in Barcelona & the historic medieval convent of Sant Agusti in central Barcelona.

Confirmed keynote speakers for 2018 include Tom Silverman (CEO, Founder Tommy Boy Records), Dante Ross (Legendary Hip Hop producer), Fabienne Fourquet (CEO, 2bTube) & many more special guests TBA.

Future Music Forum is a global 3-day music conference which includes industry speakers from around the world, with networking sessions, keynote presentations, panel discussions, workshops and live showcases from Europe's up and coming bands.

For 2018, Future Music Forum are excited to announce three separate streams per day which include a dedicated Digital Content Creators & Music stream along with our traditional Sync Stream.

This year we are delighted to announce day three will take place at the famous medieval Convent Sant Agusti for an much more interactive experience with installations like Internal Garden with Subpac, our Artist Development Stream & for the 2nd year running our Music Start Up Competition.

The 9th edition follows eight successful years, which have seen an array of music tech companies, entrepreneurs, musicians & music industry related executives descend on Barcelona for three days of lively discussion about where the music industry is heading. Participants have included Shazam, BeggarsGroup, Spotify, 8Tracks, EMI, Sony, Soundcloud and many more.

The Future Music Forum Barcelona, September 12th-14th 2018