

13th Annual Future Music Forum Barcelona Announces Dates and Opens Speaker Submissions

Barcelona, Spain – [23rd April 2024], The Future Music Forum (FMF) Barcelona, an esteemed international gathering in the music industry, is thrilled to announce the dates for its 13th annual conference. Scheduled for 25th-27th September, this year's forum promises to bring together the brightest minds in music, technology, and media at the iconic Antigua Fabrica Estrella Damm, located in the heart of Barcelona.

Since its inception, FMF Barcelona has served as a pivotal platform for discussing the evolving landscape of the music industry, fostering innovation, collaboration, and knowledge exchange among industry leaders, technology pioneers, and creative professionals. The 13th edition of FMF Barcelona is set to continue this tradition, with an expansive lineup of panels, workshops, live demos and networking opportunities designed to explore the latest trends, challenges, and opportunities shaping the future of music.

Call for Speakers Now Open

In anticipation of what promises to be the most dynamic and diverse program yet, FMF Barcelona is officially opening its call for speakers. We are seeking passionate industry professionals, innovators, and thought leaders who are eager to share their insights, experiences, and visions for the future of music. Whether you're a veteran executive, a groundbreaking artist, or a tech entrepreneur making waves in the music scene, we want to hear from you.

Speaker Submission Guidelines:

- Submission Deadline: 23rd May, 2024
- Topics of Interest: We welcome submissions across a wide range of topics relevant to music, technology, and media. This includes, but is not limited to, music production, distribution, rights management, live events, digital marketing, emerging technologies (AI, VR, blockchain), and artist development.
- Format: Proposals can be for solo presentations, panel discussions, interactive workshops, or innovative formats that encourage audience engagement.
- How to Submit: Please visit the Future Music Forum website to submit your proposal. Include a brief biography, a summary of your presentation or panel idea, and any relevant links to past presentations or professional work.
